The content of this publication was elaborated by the ministère de l'Énergie et des Ressources du Québec with the technical and financial support of the Secrétariat des activités gouvernementales en milieu amérindien et inuit (SAGMAI).

This edition was produced by LES PUBLICATIONS DU QUÉBEC.

Jacqueline Beaulieu is research officer at the Bureau du coordonnateur ministériel en milieu amérindien et inuit, ministère de l'Énergie et des Ressources du Québec.

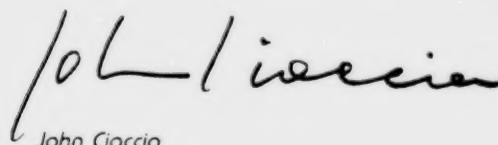

FOREWORD

It is our privilege to present the document entitled Localization of the Aboriginal Nations in Québec — Land Transactions. This compendium of the official land data concerning the lands reserved, occupied or possessed by the natives in Québec and the original maps they made possible are the results of several years of research and analysis.

We are convinced that this publication will satisfy a need that has been expressed time and again by the Amerindians and Inuit, by scientists and representatives of the different ministries and public agencies.

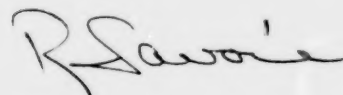

The present document is also consistent with our desire to encourage the Québec society as a whole to become better acquainted with the native reality, and thus share the interest we take in these communities.

INTRODUCTION

This publication gives a detailed account of land transactions and of the existing boundaries of Indian reserves and settlements in Québec as well as of Category I lands in accordance with the James Bay and Northern Québec Agreement and the Northeastern Québec Agreement signed in 1975 and 1978 respectively.

Each site is studied under the following headings: land transactions, present situation, nation, administration, population, area and localization. Maps are used to illustrate the "present situation".

Obviously, the reader will not find here an exhaustive history of the movements of the aboriginal peoples down through the centuries within the territory of Québec as it stands today. Such an avenue, and many others, could well be explored in order to make the present realities proper to the aboriginal peoples more understandable.

Moreover, this study lays no claim to being a juridical document; reference must be made to appropriate official documents. It will also be appreciated that the mass of documents collated for the purposes of this study is enormous and that the data used here concern situations which are not static. Thus, corrections or supplementary information, as the case may be, should be forwarded to the Bureau du coordonnateur ministériel en milieu amérindien et inuit, ministère de l'Énergie et des Ressources.*

LAND TRANSACTIONS

Under this heading the reader will find the history of land transactions in chronological order. The transactions related to Amerindian and Inuit lands from the time these were established up to the present day are listed. For each transaction reference is made to appropriate legislation (see appended lexicon) or other official documents.

The terms and designations used in this study have been taken from such documents in order to safeguard their authenticity; in the same manner, certain areas are identified in acres and then converted into hectares; so also, certain toponyms have retained their original orthography as may be found in related legislation or documents. Toponyms associated with land structure are given in French. Thus, to facilitate matters for the reader, one should understand:

Seigneurie as meaning Seignior

Paroisse de as meaning Parish of

Rang as meaning Range

Bloc as meaning Block

MRC as meaning Regional County Municipality

The large variety of modes of acquisition of land will be noted; some date from the French regime (under the form of a grant) while others came into being under different successive political regimes: Lower-Canada (1791...), Province of Canada (1840...) and Province of Québec (1867...).

PRESENT SITUATION

Here an account is given of the areas under study as they exist today, taking into account the transactions that have affected them, as the case may be, since their initial acquisition. Each area is shown in accordance with each of the modes of acquisition.

NATION

To facilitate consulting this document, the eleven nations are given in alphabetical order: Abenaki, Algonquin, Attikamek, Crè, Huron, Inuit, Malecite, Micmac, Mohawk, Montagnais and Naskapi.

For each nation, the sites, as named by the Commission de toponymie, are also shown in alphabetical order. The reader will find in appendix, a table showing the concordance of present place names with former place names of sites.

ADMINISTRATION

This part refers to the body habilitated by law to administer the areas concerned.

POPULATION

Only those populations actually living in the areas concerned have been retained for evaluating population density. Figures related to the Inuit have been provided by SAGMAI and those related to the Amerindians by the Department of Indian and Northern Affairs Canada.

TOTAL AREA

The total area corresponds to the total of the areas concerned for each mode of acquisition, as mentioned under the heading "Present situation".

LOCALIZATION

This section comprises the land title of sites (reserves, settlements or Category I or I-N lands) and a brief description of the localization as related to hydrographic or other landmarks. For the purposes of this study, lands with or without title on which the Indian Act (R.S.C. 1970, c. 1-6) was applied are classified as reserves.

* The reader will note accordingly that the collation of information for this publication terminated on August 30, 1985.

Moreover, lands with a specific title or on which the Indian Act was not applied, are classified as settlements. This designation refers, for example, to the Indians of a same Band grouped together and occupying an identifiable territory.

Category I and I-N lands are the areas defined in the Act respecting the land regime in James Bay and New Québec territories. (R.S.Q. 1979, c. A-13.1).

CARTOGRAPHY

SAGMAL and the Bureau du coordonnateur ministériel en milieu amérindien et inuit du ministère de l'Énergie et des Ressources (MÉR) entrusted the concept and design of the maps included in this study to the Service de la cartographie of the MÉR.

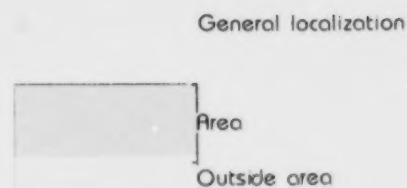

The maps illustrate "Present situation" already explained; for this purpose they give pertinent information on sites only. The following are shown: area, the system and parcelling out of land for each of the sites named in the title and, finally, a few elements indicating localization. The legend given at the end of this text illustrates the information shown and is intended to make the cartography easy to understand.

Each map contained in this document was based on a specific study respecting very precise compilation and drafting criteria. Scales vary from one map to another (1:20 000, 1:50 000, 1:125 000, 1:250 000 and 1:500 000) depending on the size of the territory in question. Manuscripts were drawn using basic maps to which surveying or cadastral elements were added.* The maps were validated by the mandatory of the Bureau du coordonnateur ministériel en milieu amérindien et inuit, MÉR; updating was done by the Commission de toponymie and the ministère des Transports du Québec. The Service de la cartographie welcomes any comment that may contribute to improving this first edition.

* The reader will find, at the bottom of each map, a note showing the origin of maps or plans used. Thus it is possible to refer to the appropriate service (Service de l'arpentage, Service du cadastre) to consult the original documents. It must be noted also that the maps contained in this study have no juridical value; only documents that have been officially recorded have force of law.

This publication gives a detailed account of land transactions and of the existing boundaries of Indian reserves and settlements in Québec as well as of Category I lands in accordance with the James Bay and Northern Québec Agreement and the Northeastern Québec Agreement.

The evolution of land tenure is demonstrated for each site by selecting the official documents related to the land transactions made down through the years.

Finally, unedited maps are used to illustrate the space now taken up by each site.
